

Michelle Fullerton

Executive and Health of Leadership Development for Bank of America

Michelle Fullerton is the diversity and inclusion executive and head of leadership development programs for Global Wealth and Investment Management (GWIM) and Consumer & Small Business Banking at Bank of America. In this role, she is responsible for the diversity and inclusion strategy and the leadership development programs for these businesses. Prior to this role, she was head of diversity and inclusion for Global Banking and Markets (GBAM) and head of diversity and inclusion for Bank of America's Europe, Middle East and Africa (EMEA) Region.

Fullerton joined Bank of America in 2009 from Stonewall, the UK's national lesbian, gay and bisexual charity, where she was manager of workplace programs. There she managed Stonewall's workplace team and programs, and acted as a diversity consultant to key clients including investment and retail banks, law firms and large public sector organizations.

Fullerton is passionate about attracting, retaining and developing diverse talent; she has in-depth knowledge of diversity "best in class" practices with expertise in professional services, investment banking and legal sectors. She is an experienced facilitator, consultant and researcher.
