- City of Charlotte Business Inclusion Program
  - Presentation: Nancy Rosado, City of Charlotte Business & Inclusion Manager, Disparity Study Review and Program Overview
    - Report with data points distributed
    - Charlotte Business Inclusion provided and overview on the Program History, Good Faith Efforts and Methodology, Disparity Study and Key Objectives of the Program and Key Findings on their Disparity Study; to include recommendations.
  - Questions:
    1. Question was asked in reference to the $81 million spend, which is comprised of city dollars. Any idea of what was the pool? Spend was broken out and distributed subcontractor spend and prime spend.
    2. Where is the office located, as it relates to procurement? Answer: Office housed in the Management and Financial Services Office.
    3. Council Member provided feedback on best practices for spend. Who develops the language for inclusion? Nancy indicated their office has a strong relationship with procurement and they have created a form for the utilization of for solicitation and provided the policy for procurement.
    4. Question was asked about resources as it relates to HUB Coordinators/individuals? Answer: 10 staff members; 2 Certification Specialist, 3 Compliance Specialists, Outreach Staff and, Reporting Staff.
    5. Question asked if there is a curriculum for the Central Piedmont Office Business classes provided. Answer: It depends on the course of interest and number of attendees.
    6. Question was asked about the rationale for not looking at any of the cities that were federally, or state funded for contracts? Answer: Anything federally funded falls under DBE and has its own separate requirement and rules and they will not necessarily look at those earlier funded projects. The City could’ve paid for that type of study, but they were interested in their progress on compliance or noncompliance in the areas presented.
    7. You want your supply base to mirror your customers, is there a barrier to business as to why companies are not in business? Answer: The Economic team is working on this finding by asking, “How can we help these individuals get developed in these areas and build to get wealth?” It not necessarily a mission of their office but they support those efforts.
8. Question: Nancy indicated 20.9 identified but not certified. How are they identified? Answer: Surveys were conducted from several data sources.

9. Question: In the 99% that the study speaks to, do you feel like your office drive to the subcontractor level? Answer: It’s a combination but the City is aggressive with the subcontractor goals that are set. They make them realistic, but they also make them stretch. They are strict to ensure that primes are meeting the contractor goals at bid.

10. Question: Subcontractor goals are specific to construction? Answer: They set goals on Architecture and Engineering, but the participation comes mostly from construction. Subcontracting is only a tool to assist with meeting the Good Faith Effort Goals.

11. Question: How do you report primes? Is that total 100% minority primes? Answer: In their report, they are included in the prime spend. Prime spend is separated out of the contractor spend.

12. 6 bids were rejected for not meeting the goal. The prime bidder must meet the goal at the time of bid. If they don't meet the goal, there is a 3-day grace period to submit the Good Faith Effort. (The State’s GFE is followed by the City of Charlotte, Business and Inclusion Office.

13. Question: Have you assessed contractor patterns within services and professional services? Until recently they did not have a system in place to track that spend. It has been difficult to track. That will be next phase, as they move forward.

14. Question: Do you track your P-Card spend? Answer: Next phase. The City spends millions of dollars and they have no way of knowing how much was spent with Minority/Women Businesses.

15. Question: What is the name of the software to capture the spend? Answer: B2G Now. Training has begun with staff and primes. Primes will have to enter their spend and not the City.

16. Question: If the goal is not met, are you providing recommendations or providing feedback? Answer: They have a policy that is utilized that everyone has a responsibility. Best practices are shared on how they can increase their spend. When they pull the report and notice the miss opportunities, they sit down with the contractor to ask why they did not utilize a Minority/Women Business firm. The firm is informed they are monitoring their spend.
